

DRONE VOLT

1st Prize: the Drone Volt Janus 360° VR (Virtual Reality) at Satis 2016 Paris

Villepinte, 18 November 2016

DRONE VOLT, the French professional drone manufacturer, exhibited its new products at the SATIS trade fair and was awarded first prize for innovation in new technology by the industry professionals in the Production and Filming category for its Janus 360° VR (Virtual Reality).

After its nomination for the “Best in Show Award” at CE Week 2016 in New York last June, the Janus 360° VR won first prize in the Mediakwest awards at the Satis 2016 trade fair held at Porte de Versailles from November 15th to 17th.

Designed and manufactured by Drone Volt in France, the Janus 360 is currently the only drone dedicated to virtual reality for movies and video games.

Virtual reality is gradually becoming more prevalent in our daily lives in many areas, e.g. entertainment, real estate and medicine. There are considerable prospects for development in many other sectors, including tourism, trade and distribution, engineering and defence. A study by Goldman Sachs published in January 2016 estimates that the addressable market for virtual reality and augmented reality may exceed 100 billion dollars by 2025.
